DEPUTIES AT WORK ON BOOKS OF COUNTY ASSESSOR

This morning County Assessor T. Mathews put to work on the assessment blotters his regular deputies, J. W. Gibson, J. A. Mathews, Walter W. Fife, Julia Flygare and Ireta Chambers, and the board of county commissioners fixed their per diem salary at $3.

The suit of Deputy J. A. Mathews for salary for work done in October is pending in the district court, but it will be heard on its merits within the next few days. Salaries for Deputies Mathews and Gibson for October were refused by the board on the grounds that the assessor had ample time to do the work and the commissioners advised him that they would not pay for work done by deputies that should be done by him. The question in court rests largely on the question as to whether the board of commissioners has the power to regulate in detail the work done in the assessor's office by deputies.

The name of W. D. Clegg as deputy clerk was sent to the board by Clerk Samuel G. Dye and the appointment was confirmed.

F. L. VOORHEES' SUDDEN DEATH ON LAST SATURDAY

Francis Leslie Voorhees, chief clerk in the office of J. D. Malone, master mechanic in the local Southern Pacific shops, died suddenly Saturday night at his home, 2201 Jefferson ave.

Up to the time of his death, Mr. Voorhees had apparently been in good health, but the suddenness of his demise was from heart trouble. He had been at his desk in Mr. Malone's office during the day, had come home from work in his automobile, which he had put in the garage and had been resting for a few minutes in the parlor, when death overtook him.

Mr. Voorhees had been an employee of the Southern Pacific and Oregon Short Line railroads for nearly twenty years and had lived in Ogden since 1896. He was well known and highly respected locally and owned considerable property on the bench.

Mr. Voorhees was born in Kingston, New York, in 1857. He leaves to mourn his sad taking away, his wife, and a sister, Mrs. W. A. Hamlyn. He was a member of Weber Lodge No. 6, F. A. M., and also a member of the Royal Arcanum at Salt Lake.

Mr. Voorhees came to Ogden 17 years ago and worked as chief clerk for Mr. Luckett. He was transferred to Salt Lake City where he occupied a similar position with Mr. Dunn of the O. S. L. for three years. He then moved to Blair, Nev., as cashier of the Silver Peak Mining company. He remained there for three years and then returned to Ogden for his health and since his return has been chief clerk to Mr. Malone.

The funeral services will take place in the Masonic Temple, Wednesday, at 2:30 p. m., with Rev. W. W. Fleetwood conducting. The remains may be viewed at the home Wednesday from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. Interment will be in the city cemetery.

FEEDING THE QUAIL IN THE MOUNTAINS

A. H. Moyes, district fish and game commissioner, recently visited the quail feeding grounds at the base of the mountain east of the city and he reports that the birds are doing remarkably well. There are large flocks. The snow is about 18 inches deep near the east beach, at the outskirts of the city, but the birds like the snow then they have plenty of food, and the commissioner has distributed a good supply among them.

BURGLARS IN STORE OF GRIFFIN PAINT COMPANY

A burglary was reported this morning from the Griffin Glass & Paint company. The cash register had been opened and $5.75 taken by the thief.

An investigation by Sergeant Mohlman led to the discovery that the thief had entered the basement through the trapdoor on the sidewalk and had made his way into the office on the first floor by coming up the stairway from the basement.

One of the night patrolmen had reported that he had found the trapdoor unfastened while making his rounds, but that everything was apparently all right in the store at that time.

According to the officers, there have been a number of similar robberies during the past few months, where thieves have gained entrance to stores through sidewalk trapdoors. They suggest, therefore, that the merchants use more care in seeing that all doors are closed and locked.

JURY ROOMS ARE BEING PREPARED FOR THE GRAND JURY

The three jury rooms on the upper floor of the county court house are being renovated and placed in proper condition for the grand jury, which will begin its deliberations next Saturday, or the following Monday.

New and clean beds will be placed for the jurors in case it becomes necessary for them to remain together at night.

The two juries will appear in the district court next Friday for examination as to their statutory qualifications and, after the eliminations, if there be any, seven of the twenty-five grand jurors will be selected to act. The entire petit jury of 35 men, except those disqualified, will be retained as trial jurors for the month and the panel will be required to appear for each trial in the two divisions of the district court.

After the seven grand jurors have been selected, the judges of the district court will instruct them as to what shall be required of them.

The calling of the grand jury is a special event in Weber county, as it has not been necessary before since statehood, in 1896. The jury will have a wide, secret scope of action. The jury will be selected from the following named persons:

Frank F. Barrows, Warren; William B. Lake, Harrisville; Robert W. Maw, Plain City; McHowells VanDyke, Charles F. Grout, Alex. Leatham, Ed. A. Auth, James F. Wadman, Walter D. Scoville, Oscar B. CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 29.—Commissio. buying which developed at a slight decline brought about a rally today in wheat. The opening was unchanged to 3-8c lower, but the losses were all overcome and December scored a decided gain.

Predictions of colder weather put firmness into corn after an early dip. Prices started 1-4c off to 1-8c up, underwent a moderate sag all around and then went above Saturday's level. Oats reflected the action of corn. First sales of provisions varied from a shade to 10c higher, but transactions later were at a net loss. The wheat close was firm, 1-2 to 1 3-8c net higher. The corn close was strong at an advance of 5-8c to 2 1-8c net.
